ABOUT IIEL

Georgetown Law is one of the world's premier law schools. The Institute of International Economic Law (IIEL) is the focal point for the study of international economic law at Georgetown. IIEL's faculty include scholars and practitioners at the forefront of all areas of international economic law. Originally focused on trade, the Institute now boasts leading capabilities in a range of areas including investment and financial regulation, tax, business and monetary law. The Institute actively approaches these fields as interrelated and at times overlapping policy spheres that impact how law is devised, practiced and enforced.

IIEL's programs are geared toward both students and professionals alike. Students from around the world pursuing a degree at Georgetown Law are invited to enroll in IIEL's International Economic Law & Policy Colloquium; to pursue a Certificate in WTO Studies; or to answer legal questions related to international economic law in service of a real client, as part of the International Economic Law Practicum. Students and Visiting Researchers may apply to be an IIEL Fellow and participate in weekly policy discussions and research workshops. Practitioners are invited to expand their knowledge and network by attending one of IIEL's many conferences, special events or Executive Education programs.
